Americans Buy Salmon

Fraser River Fishers Offered Advanced Prices for Their Catch.

Robbers Gag Woman and Force a Confession From Her by Torture.

Annual Scottish Games Held at Vancouver Attract a Large Crowd.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Vancouver, Aug. 1.—The Province says that D. N. McMillan, of the Pacific Packing company, Puget Sound, taking advantage of the rebate on salmon imported into the United States, passed up the Gulf yesterday offering British Columbia fishermen an advance on the price of fish to what they would get at the canneries.

Word comes from Cloverdale, B.C., that the house of Miss Marshall was entered by a burglar last night, who demanded her money. She refused, and the burglar bound, gagged and blindfolded her and affixed horrible tortures until in awful agony of mind she told the burglar where the money was. He secured $40 and a quantity of jewelry and departed. The description of the burglar is meagre.

The annual Scottish games were held at Brockton Point today, a very large crowd attended and the celebration passed off successfully.

Mr. Rich has declined to allow his name to be mentioned as a candidate in Richmond in the Conservatives' interests. In fact, before the name was mentioned in the press he had not been asked to stand, although it was the intention of the party managers to ask him to consent to be nominated. The name of Mr. Rich, a prominent rancher of the Delta district, is now mentioned in connection with the Conservative candidature, and it is likely that Mr. Rich will be asked to allow himself to be nominated. Mr. S. Cawley, of Chilliwack, is mentioned as the possible nominee of the Conservatives in the Fraser River Garden Town, while Mr. Maynard, of the Delta district, is mentioned as the possible nominee of the Conservatives in the Richmond. Mr. Tuttle will be asked to contest the riding in the interests of the Conservative party.

There are now over 6,000 names on the list of the Conservatives in Vancouver. A well-known canner who has interests on Puget Sound as well as in British Columbia waters, stated that in spite of the law allowing rebate on duty paid on salmon coming into the United States, in his opinion the American canners will not think it worth their while to buy netted salmon for their cans, as they will run risk of the salmon being too stale to pack by the time they get to the canneries.

Baxter Bishop, an American, whose name is synonymous with Buckley Valley, B.C., and the attempts made to settle the valley by establishing colonies on the land, returned from Victoria yesterday, where he has been making another proposition to the government regarding the settlement of the American colony in the Ootsa Lake and Buckley Valley country. The government have now this proposition of Mr. Bishop under consideration, and Mr. Bishop states that if the government accepts the proposition he will be able to bring a large number of Americans in here to settle on the land that is suitable for cultivation, otherwise he will be obliged to return to his native land. Should they settle on the land the American colony subjects, of course, become British subjects. Mr. Bishop believes that the government will grant the concessions asked, and is consequently buying up military scrip for the purpose of applying on land, not taken up in the usual way from the government.

This week's Gazette, as well as last week's, indicates the waste of timber speculation. But ten applications for timber licenses have been applied for in two weeks, seven this week and three last.

The search for coal, however, seems to still continue, as eighteen applications for licenses to locate coal are reported this week. There are but two applications to purchase recorded in this week's Gazette, two notices of assignment and two notices of new incorporation. Canada Shoe company and the Fraser River Paper company.

The membership of the B.C. Lumbermen's association has been much augmented and their influence increased by the acquisition of all the mill owners in Victoria and on Vancouver Island. The Island mill owners were invited to join the association and after an interview with some of the officials at a meeting recently held on the island, they consented to do so. Herebefore the membership was drawn chiefly from Vancouver and New Westminster.

Preliminary negotiations are in progress for the re-construction of the Ogilvie block, which is to be entirely occupied by the dry goods firm of Drysdale & Stevenson.

Mr. Hon. L. Edwin Dudley, American consul, returned from a trip to Atlin yesterday, where he had gone for the purpose of investigating the necessity of granting the request of the American citizens of Atlin in establishing a United States consular agency in that town. Mr. Dudley states that he is not at all certain that he will recommend the appointment, but he cannot tell until he makes further investigations. His report to the government would be based on information received regarding the actual number of American citizens in Atlin and the importance of having a permanent camp. He would say, however, as far as he could see, that the bulk of the mining would be done by capitalists with machinery. Mr. Dudley referred to the possibilities of the big dredge which would soon be operating on the poor man's farm.

Mr. Switzer, the manager of the company operating the dredge, stated that it would be completed in a very short time, a matter of weeks. He said he had prospect all the good grounds by the most modern method and was satisfied that it was rich. The dredge had cost $300,000, but he expected that it would pay for itself in thirty days' run. The dredge was set in a deep ditch which was filled with water and the gravel is taken by the dredge and passed through the sluice boxes from the front the tailings will be deposited in the rear. Mr. Dudley was particularly impressed with the good results in the dredging and states that the trip throughout was a very pleasant one.

The Vancouver Liberals held a meeting last night which was well attended and made a change in their platform, dropping the compulsory arbitration plank, owing to the Dominion Trades and Labor Council requesting that no action be taken on a bill dealing with the subject last session. Regarding the calling of a general convention it was decided to leave the matter in the hands of a provincial executive.

Mr. Clarke, who decided Clarke's park to the city under certain conditions, which conditions he claims have not been carried out, and who has failed to make his contentions good before the justice of the peace, is taking the case to the Privy Council. Everett beat Vancouver at baseball yesterday three to one. The game was a good one.

The Emperor William, King Edward, King Christian of Denmark, and King George of Greece, have already promised to attend.

CROFTON AGAIN IS PROSPEROUS

The Smelter Town At Osborne Bay Once More Full of Life.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Crofton, B. C., Aug. 1.—This has been a busy week for everybody at Crofton, and the prospects are good for a long continuance of the present prosperous conditions.

The week opened with a meeting of the board of school trustees for the purpose of selecting a teacher for the public school. Mr. J. T. Pearce was chairman, Mr. Dupies, secretary, and Trustee Pollard were present. Sixteen applications had been received for the position. As the majority of the trustees were in favor of having a male teacher, Mr. R. F. Gordon received the appointment.

One of the pleasant events of the week was the wedding of Mr. Joe A. Broadwell, postmaster, and Miss Lee, of South Salt Spring island. A dance was given in their honor on Friday night at the Hotel Osborne, sixty couples being present. There would have been more, as many were expected from Salt Spring island, but the invitations did not reach them in time. Supper was served at midnight, and the dance was kept up with great spirit until three o'clock in the morning. The bride was presented with many valuable tokens of esteem, testifying to her great popularity with all.

The smelter has been doing splendid work. Several tons of concentrates have been shipped during the week, making ten carloads of matte of twenty-five tons each, sent out since the smelter was blown in after the shut down, July 5.

He says American competition does not amount to a row of pins.

NORTHERN SECURITIES WIN IN STATE COURTS

Decision in Minnesota in Favor of the Jim Hill Merger.

St. Paul, Aug. 1.—Judge Lechren today, in the Circuit Court, handed down his decision in the case of the state of Minnesota against the Northern Securities Company, the Great Northern Railway Company, the Northern Pacific Railway Company, and James J. Hill, president of the Northern Securities Company, and individually in which he sustained the contentions of the defendants and dismissed the bill of complaint of the state. He finds the Northern Securities Company has not violated the state laws forbidding the consolidation of parallel and competing lines. He reverses the injunctions asked by the state of Minnesota to restrain the Northern Securities Company from voting the stock of the railway companies or either of them.

This decision affects the results of the federal government's victory in the Circuit Court in no way whatever. The federal suit was based on a totally different contention of law. In the federal suit, the securities company was prosecuted for violation of the Sherman anti-trust law. The suit which the defendants violated an act of the Minnesota legislature forbidding the consolidation of parallel and competing lines of railway.

Two Ballots But No Pope

First Day of the Conclave Results in Nothing. Definite.

Rampolla Party Said to Be in the Ascendant in Voting.

Balloting Continues Today But Final Result Expected Tomorrow.

Rome, Aug. 1.—The first day of the conclave has ended without the election of a pope. Both morning and afternoon the members of the sacred college, except Cardinals Herrera, Espinosa, Cretoni, Langeneux and Couille, who were confined to their cells by illness, entered the Sistine chapel, where, after the solemn ritual appointed for the occasion, they deposited their ballots in the chalice. That these gave no candidate for election before Monday no one can tell. It was reported this evening that the Rampolla party was in the ascendant, but this cannot be known as any indication of the final result. Rumor generally assigns Monday as the most likely day upon which an election will occur.

No one here seriously expected the cardinals to select a pontiff on the first ballot, hence the monotony of the populace were present on the piazza of St. Peter's, though in the immediate neighborhood a thousand troops and gendarmes stood idle in the shade of the colonnades. Soon after the election of the cardinal, the hereditary right to stand next to the papal throne, sat on the steps of St. Peter's, beside an old beggar woman; like her, he watched intently for the smoke signal, but no smoke came. The bells of the Basilica rang out the call to vespers, but none went in. The priests pacing the steps of St. Peter's, prayer books in hand, muttered the evening office with an ever-watchful eye on the Sistine chapel. The suspense became intense; even the street urchins who had gathered in large numbers to collect the discarded ends of cigarettes thrown away by the nervous crowd, stood still and gazed toward the chapel. Several false alarms caused a thrill of excitement. Then came a rumor that a pope had been elected, and many persons rushed to the Basilica to get good seats when the announcement should be made. The impression that a choice had been reached was heightened by the appearance upon the walls of the Vatican of a few officials in full uniform, as if for a great ceremony. When 6 o'clock chimed from the big clock of St. Peter's there was a sea of returned faces, forced in intense anticipation on the Sistine chapel's crooked tin snookstack. Three minutes later from the crooked tin of the snook stack came a thin streak of smoke, so light, so faint, that it was scarcely distinguishable. From the crowd came a sigh of relief. Still watching with craned necks, they saw the smoke thicken, and then it came down, and in two minutes all trace of today's futile voting had vanished into air, slowly, and with much speculation as to what had occurred within the conclave, and the likelihood of an election tomorrow, the crowds dispersed.

WILL NOT EXHIBIT.

VISITED SQUADRON.

Lisbon, Aug. 1.—King Charles, in the uniform of an admiral, the Prince Royal Louise Philippe, the young Prince Don Manuel and the Count de Alentejo, visited the American squadron here today. They were accompanied by the dignitaries of the royal palace and the officials of the ministry of marine. Both the American and the Portuguese men-of-war, which were fully decorated for the occasion, fired salutes, and as the royal barges near the flagship Brooklyn, the band played the national anthem of Portugal. The royal personnel were received at head of ladder by Admiral Cotton, and the King and his entourage boarded the Brooklyn. The visit ended after luncheon.

But Purity is Essential
But he will tell you that beer must be protected from germs, and brewed in absolute cleanliness.

He'll say, too, that age is important, for age brings perfect fermentation. Without it, beer ferments on the stomach, causing biliousness.

The memorial is being enthusiastically supported by Scotsmen and the public generally in the "Britains over the Seas," as well as at home.

"It was for the British Empire he wrought the magnificent deeds which have added lustre and glory to the martial history of the British Army, and it is fitting therefore that in London a memorial worthy of his services should be established, so that his memory should be perpetuated in the most fitting manner."

To do proper justice to Sir Hector's grand record of work, ten thousand pounds are required, and the committee accordingly appeal to intending subscribers in Canada, Australia, India, Africa, and all the world over to forward their donations at once. Among the donations received already are Mr. Samuel Greenleaf, £100; Sir Malcolm Colclach, £50; Mr. Ralph Decker, £25; the Duke of Argyll, £10; Mr. W. H. Milligan, £20; Professor Devlin, £10. The Honorary Treasurers are Dr. Farquhar Macpherson, J. P., 11, Solo Square, London, W.; William Grant, Esq., St. Mark's House, Port of Spain, Trinidad. Donations may also be sent to Sir Charles R. McGregor, Bart. & Co. Bankers, 27 Charles Street, St. James's, S. W. the Bank of Scotland, 20, Rielesgate, Winton, London, E. C., and Mr. Samuel Greenleaf, 62 Portland Place, London, W., chairman of general committee.

Eleven Cent Meals on Quadra

What Liberal Government Expect Steward to Provide For 33 Per Diem.

Officers of Government Cruiser Have Money For Rations Cut Down.

Yesterday the new regulations came into force on the D. G. S. Quadra, and the amount of 50 to 55 cents per diem for feeding the officers of the government cruiser were then reduced to 33 cents a day—11 cents a meal.

Hackett and his officers will hereafter have to live on 11-cent meals or furnish money themselves for extras.

"The origin of the Liberal government's new order of 11-cent meals is a very old story," and has demonstrated once more the truth of that old adage, that "half the truth, the greater the lie." The Grit organ says in regard to the instructions received by the Quadra, the local agent of the Department of Marine and Fisheries, from that very Liberal government at Ottawa, that "a week or so ago he received a schedule from headquarters which is to serve as a guide for the allowance of the officers' mess, but no instructions accompanied it regarding its enforcement."

Or this statement, one-half is true, and that states that the guide or schedule of fare for the weekly board of the crew of the Quadra was received. As for the instructions which accompanied it, the evening paper neglects to state that the following interesting legend, over the signature of the official in charge of the department.

At the bottom of the bill of fare of what the very Liberal government believes to be the 11-cent meals, there is something which the local agent could also give to the Times newspaper for publication. It says:

"The cost of these meals is not to exceed 33 cents per diem."

The bill of fare, or "guide" for the board of the Quadra's crew, which is published below, will give Colonist readers an idea of the kind of 11-cent meal the Liberal government expects the stewards to secure. Take that Sunday dinner for instance. For 11 little copper cents—10 cents and a postage stamp in British Columbia money—the officers of the Quadra are to get for the sailorman, boiled meat, boiled ham, roast or boiled poultry, potatoes and vegetables, plum pudding and jelly. The wonder is that the bill of fare provided by the very Liberal government does not include a mug of champagne in that 11-cent meal.

And so it is with every meal which the "guide" received by Capt. Gaudin from the Liberal government at Ottawa. Anyone who has ever bought a meal, and all Colonist readers have, will know that they are pretty good meals for 11 cents. In its reference to the "guide" referred to by Capt. Gaudin, the local Grit organ says:

"If this is what the Colonist is driving at, it is way off the track. The most epicurean member of its staff would not desire anything better than the following, which is the guide referred to."

To which one and all members of the staff say: "Show me where the officers of the Quadra are to get meals like these mentioned in the bill of fare for 11 cents, and each member of the Colonist staff will lose no time in getting a meal ticket at that place, for, without doubt, they certainly are good 11-cent meals."

The guide fails to mention what shall be the daily menu of the men, who are to have 10-cent meals—for but 39 cents a day is provided for their keep. Presumably this is left to the option of the officers, and it may be that the duties of the Quadra will keep her in the neighborhood of good clam bakes, or perchance a few runs to the Fraser when the sickly are running and help the harder, or the better shots could be sent ashore at different points to get reison. But no matter what is done, it is a fact positive that 10 cents will provide a poor meal for the sailorman, and 11 cents does not secure a very good meal—certainly nothing like that stated for the officers.

What can be done in the cent belt is a matter of conjecture, but eventually the very Liberal government which is devoting its time to figure how good a meal can be supplied for 11 cents, feels that where the copper cent goes to and fro, and things are cut to the finest limit, they might be able to get that roast and boiled poultry for 11 cents—but things are different in British Columbia. Surely there is not a desperate Grit plot in this enforcement of 11-cent meals on the Canadian cruiser at Ottawa, a precedent to show those underpaid postal clerks how cheaply the brass-bound officers of a Canadian cruiser can be fed when they clamor to have their paltry salaries advanced to a living wage, as it is understood in the West.

And now that readers of the Colonist may see what kind of meals are to be provided for 33 cents per day, three meals at 11 cents a meal, the "guide" referred to is appended, so as published by the Grit organ in yesterday's issue:

CANOE PARTY GOT A BATH

Line From Dredge Upturned Canoe and Couple Had Unpleasant Experience.

They had smoothed the cushions in the bottom of the canoe, loaded the Peterboro with the luncheon, and the new-made cakes and other delicacies that were to have furnished the repast when the waters of the arm were reached. She, gay in her airy gown and pretty frills and furbelows, neat and trim, and he, equally gay in his cool flannel, boarded the canoe, and paddled out from the landing at Dan McIntosh's boathouse.

Anticipation was working over them then. They pictured the pleasant afternoon they would spend, the picnic luncheon they would spread, and life's golden thing tended to make it so. Was not the sun shining brightly, the waters shimmering in the sunlight, and the cool breeze blowing over the face of the water—in fact, it was a perfect canoeing day.

Realization is, however, seldom as good as anticipation. Idealization in this instance was backed up by a big dredge, a long hawser stretching from the dredge to the wharf, and a sudden swing of the big dredge. The couple, she a promising young lawyer and athlete, she a popular young lady, prominent in musical circles, were in blissful ignorance of that hawser, and they paddled their canoe into the exact latitude and longitude to get acquainted with the long rope in a most unpleasant way.

It was sad indeed. The dredge swung to one side and the long hawser, which had been lying beneath the surface, was suddenly switched up into the air just as the Peterboro was crossing. When the line switched up underneath the bow of the Peterboro, it knocked the canoe in the air. It killed completely, and he and she, lunch, etc., went up in the air, somersaulted gracefully and landed in the water.

They both discovered the water to be wet. But, undismayed at this discovery, they struck out, and the gallant young man assisted the young lady to the rope, along which she pulled herself through the water—for she is an athletic young lady—to the dredge. The young man swam along the dredge scow and sprang up on to it, and lifted the young lady from the water. There they stood, watching the upturned canoe.

"My cake! My cake! Oh, save my cake!" she cried, as she stood on the scow, shaking off some of the water her clothing had absorbed from the harbor.

But no one saved the cake. It and the lunch were lost—also the canoeing trip. But otherwise no damage resulted.

And thus ended the merry adventures of the young man and the young lady who started to go canoeing yesterday afternoon.

DIMINISHED VITALITY.
Some people take very flippantly about diminished vitality.

They don't stop to think that vitality is the principal of life—that it is that little understood something on which every function of their bodies depends.

Diminished vitality is early indicated by loss of appetite, nervousness, and endurance, and food's Sarsaparilla is the greatest vitalizer.

Strong Evidence for the Weak

THE LAST RESORT SHOULD BE THE FIRST
Mr. James Johnston, J.P., Ottawa City Postoffice, wrote me last week as follows:—

"I have to thank you very much for your Electric Belt. This time last year I was not able to do any work on my large farm, now I am able to turn out and guide the men. I was so overcome with heart disease that I could not walk. I am seventy-four on the 28th of this month, and you know at my time of life you cannot make me over again, but your Belt has worked a miracle on me. I had faith in your treatment from the first, and believed all you said to me about my case, and I assure you, sir, I will do my best to make known, with pen and tongue, the good quality of your electrical treatment."

DR. McLAUGHLIN'S 'ELECTRIC BELT'

will do the same for you. If I fail to convince some people it is because they will not use their own judgment. I don't ask you to take my word only—ask those who have used my Belt. Every man or woman who comes into my office gets a practical illustration of my method of treatment; when they see how the cure is made it appeals to their common sense. There is no mystery about it. I give a free test to all who call. Here is another case—this one of Mr. M. Haig, 35 Byward Market Square, Ottawa, Ont. You can read what he writes to me:—

"If anyone has given your Belt a fair trial I have, and I do not regret it. When I got the Belt I could not stoop to tie my shoes, and had to be helped to get my coat on. Now I have not a pain or an ache and feel as well as I ever did. If I feel sore after heavy work I put the Belt on and get up in the morning as limber as ever. I recommend the Belt to every one I see. I was 82 years of age last May."

Even Unto Old Age You May Be Free From Pain and Defy Your Years.

I will cite you another case, this one of Mr. Philip McGahey, Riviere aux Pins, Que. Read what he writes me:—
"I feel now I am a new man. For forty years I have had a bad back, now I can run a race or pick up a pin, I feel so smart; no pain. I am in my seventieth year; never was so well in health as I am now. When I used to be bad, I would be a month that I could not stoop to lace my boots; now I feel no pain in doing so. I am just as smart as any young fellow at present. Sir, no one would be without one of your Belts if they knew the good to be had from them. I have recommended them highly to all my friends, and you will soon have some orders."

The human body is just like an engine. It breaks down when the physical energy is overtaxed—that energy is ELECTRICITY. I have here a means of replenishing the electricity of the body, and that is the basis of my treatment. Decay in old men is similar to general debility in younger ones. Years have nothing to do with it. In every case it is the failure of the stomach to generate sufficient energy to supply the demands made by the vital organs. Here is another case—this one of Mr. Thomas Dougherty (nurse), London, Ont. Read his letter:—

"The reason I have not written you earlier is that I wish to do you all the justice in my power. I have been doing this among my friends in this city and elsewhere. Yesterday, when I was in St. Thomas, I think I made known to fifty persons the state I was in when I wrote you about the Belt, and the good results I have received from wearing the same. The Belt has done for me all you said it would. The electric treatment I used some time ago was of so much benefit that I came to the conclusion that if an occasional treatment of twenty minutes did me so much good, a steady flow of electricity into my system for hours would do a thousand times more good, and now, at the end of a few weeks' treatment, I can say, 'Thank God for your Electric Belt.' I had one year ago it would have saved me hundreds of dollars, and oh, what pain and misery. I don't have to get up every half hour through the night as I used to—no more pain or sediment or disgusting odor. The pains and irritable nervousness are a thing of the past. If it will do all this for an overworked, run-down man of fifty-six, what must it do for a young man?"

An old fellow, a patient of two years previous, came to see me one day and asked me to have his Belt overhauled, as he wanted to put it on again. He said that he had never before cured two years ago, strong and sound. "But," said he, "I am 81 years of age and not as well able to stand knocking about as I was in my youth, and I wear the Belt occasionally, not because of present need, but just so that I will have strength to spare in case of demand, as you are riding a bicycle on a level ground and see a hill before you, what do you do? Put on more steam, eh? I am getting older every day and need more steam. That's why I wear the Belt."

READ WITH CARE. Dr. McLaughlin's Electric Belt is positively the only electric appliance sold with which you receive the advice of a practical physician. I give you my advice free of charge.

FREE BOOK. CONSULTATION FREE. I want you to call and examine my Belt. I will talk over your case with you. I will prove to you that electricity, when properly applied, will cure. You can test the Belt. For those who cannot call I have a Free Book, which gives many hundreds of letters from men and women whom I have cured. Tells all about the signs of decay in men, how they are caused, how they first appear, the way the vital force is wasted, and how all those troubles are cured by Electricity. It inspires a man to be "a man all over." I will mail it closely sealed, free. All correspondence strictly confidential.

The Politicians At Ottawa

How a Postmaster was Sent to Squeeze the Public's Civil Servants.

Another Ex-Member Provided With a Nice Fat Sinecure By Grits.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Ottawa, July 22.—The extent to which public departments are utilized for party advantage was shown by an answer to a question put by Mr. Blair of Peel in the house this week. A Mr. L. J. LaTour is postmaster of the department of public works, although goodness knows what the necessity for the office is. For this sinecure he receives a salary of $1,000 per annum. Mr. LaTour is well known throughout the province of Quebec, and when the Liberal leaders in Montreal discovered that Mr. LaTour was not going to hand over his newspaper, La Patrie, to them, they had to set about getting a personal organ of their own. Accordingly, Le Canada, a French Liberal morning paper, was established in Montreal about three months ago. In order to work up the subscription list, and to assist in putting the paper upon its feet, Mr. LaTour was called from his position in the public works department, and sent on the road as canvasser for Le Canada. Needless to say that he carries with him a copy of the civil service list, and the first persons he calls upon on his arrival in any town or village are those who may happen to be on the Federal pay list. He is not being handsomely paid for his work, but before he would accept the position of subscription canvasser for Le Canada, he insisted upon some one holding down his office in the public works department, and accordingly his young son, who has barely entered into his teens, is filling the father's job until all the faithful have been approached to cash up their subscriptions for Le Canada. Mr. LaTour up to July 1 had drawn $360 from the public treasury, and his father is still engaged in the congenial work of squeezing the civil service.

Another of the stalwarts of the Liberal party has got his reward. It is noteworthy that when the Liberals were in power they were insistent and persistent in condemning the practice of appointing members of the cabinet to positions of public trust. No sooner were the Liberals in control of the government than they commenced to renege the professions which they had so recently made. One man after another struggled to get a Senatorship or some public office, and the number of those who are today drawing pay from the government has been counted by the score. It has just developed that another ex-member has been given a nice little work. This gentleman is Mr. Savard, ex-M.P. for Chateaufort, who, through the good offices of Mr. Prefontaine, has been engaged by the department of marine and fisheries to equip into certain legal vessels which were conflicting claims of the Federal and Provincial governments and the Labrador company, to the right of fishery within the limits of that portion of the north shore of the Gulf of St. Lawrence known as the Mingan Seigniory. For this work he receives remuneration at the rate of $5 a day.

In connection with the bill to amend the Fisheries Act there is an interesting discussion on the subject of the use of purse seines in the waters of both the Atlantic and Pacific oceans. This bill authorizes the minister of marine and fisheries to issue licenses for the catching of salmon in British Columbia waters, with a view to off setting the practice of trap-net fishing pursued by the Americans near the mouth of the Fraser. It is felt that with the use of purse seines the salmon can be intercepted before they reach the estuary of the Fraser, and to that extent the British Columbia fishery will be benefited, and the American trap-net fishermen correspondingly crippled. This provision led to a general discussion as to the merits of this kind of fishing. The Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island members insisted upon one uniform law, that British Columbia fishermen should not receive the benefit of a concession which was withheld from the Maritime provinces. Hon. William Ross declared that American seiners were frequenting the coast of Nova Scotia in the spring of the year with purse seines and were taking home vast quantities of mackerel caught in this way. He thought that this method of fishing should be forbidden by both the Canadian and United States government. Since, however, the American fishermen were permitted to use the purse seines outside of the mile limit and frequently poached inside that limit when not watched, Mr. Ross agreed that the Canadian fisherman to the Canadian fishermen not to be able to use the same methods for catching mackerel within their own waters as the American fishermen used in their immediate neighborhood. Mr. Kaulbach, of Lunenburg, pointed out that by the use of these purse seines American fishermen were simply depleting Canadian waters while the government regulations but the Canadian fisherman under a serious disadvantage. He insisted that either some arrangement should be made with the United States

Victoria Loses By Narrow Margin

Sedro-Woolley Captures the Second Game After Exciting Match.

Home Team Buys Out Five Earned Runs to the Visitors' One.

Near the shores of Gitchee Gumme, in a vast stretch of meadow, spread out flat across the landscape. Which backs almost a baseball diamond. These two factions came together. There were braves from Sedro-Woolley. And the reds who keep us shouting. Till our throats in its weakness. Faintly roots with weakling whippers. While the reds took all their scapulae flung to them before the wigwags. While we hollered in the twilight. But the braves from across the waters. Gave the reds the Merryhaha. When the tribes came again together. Near the shores of Gitchee Gumme. First came the reds with their war club. Hit the come until it shattered. And then with runs, hits and errors. Merely they played the ball game. Aided old Chase as modestly as they. Clipped a board from off the fences. And held him swift around the bases. While the scores marked a home run. They played with hits and catches. Striden bases and all the plays. That a rooster's soul delights in. Until the fatal time grew near. When one lone small hit was needed. To keep the scapulae from the players. Who came across the big sea waters. And while Chase stood there waiting. Ready for the small home side. Elmer blazed it in the baseman's fingers. With such force that it lodged there. Like a fly which in the batter. Caught its legs and stayed a prisoner. Thus it was—oh my children. That our scaps were taken from us. And the boys from Sedro-Woolley. Beat us at the festive ball game.

Sedro-Woolley 8; Victoria 7.

The error column tells the tale. The home team had all kinds of chances to win the game. The fans coming home on the cars with woe-begone expressions on their visages sadly enumerated the potentialities which might have materialized. If the fickle divinity had been in any way propitious. One fan clinging to the car strap, after relieving his heart-rendering agony by a series of sighs, attempted to rather console himself by the reflection that Victoria would have won, if Smith had only held that easy fly in left in the second inning, or if Chase had held the ball in the third when Irbey was speeding to the plate, or if in the same inning Irbey had not allowed Brockhoff's grounder to pass through his nether pins, or if Emerson had not struck out and left Whalen to die on third after the latter's frantic cheer as Emerson landed on the base, or if Whalen could only have tapped the ball for a single after Chase had stolen second and third in the ninth, and is just required one run to tie the score, or if Haynes had not pitched to the initial sack just before Whalen swatted the sphere for

"After the Game Was Over"

While the Sutherland-Sifton element has been much in evidence during the past few weeks it is generally conceded that the Fitzpatrick-Burnes aggregation is rapidly coming to the front. Messrs. Fitzpatrick and Mulock, like Mr. Sifton, aspire to the leadership of the Liberal party, and while they are willing to join the final battle for supremacy between the two men would be long and bitter. Mr. Fitzpatrick is the only man from Quebec who is capable of taking over the reins of the party, and no doubt, believes that he would have the backing of the Quebec members should he offer himself to caucus for election as the chief of Canadian Liberalism. On the other hand, Mr. William Mulock is possessed of unlimited means, which he has used without stint in advancing the interests of his party in Ontario. It cost him a small fortune to defeat Hon. J. E. Foster, but he did it because he wished to strengthen himself with the Ontario contingent. Being one of the vainest men in the cabinet he would naturally resent the selection of another as the head of Canadian affairs, and being like Mr. Fitzpatrick, a fighter who never gives up until every means at his disposal is exhausted, the struggle between them should not be unduly less marked by scenes even worse than those which are now disgracing our public life.

Hon. W. S. Fielding is sitting tight, and saying little. A year ago the innuendo minister was the most likely candidate for the job of prime minister, but his chances have diminished materially within the past twelve months. Western Liberals do not want to see the Maritime province venture to form an estimate for over twenty-four hours. To each meeting of the council is attended with new complications and before the Grand Trunk Pacific deal is disposed of, more startling announcements than those already made may have to be chronicled.

What will be the outcome of this barren garden style of government? Nobody at Ottawa would venture to form an estimate for over twenty-four hours. To each meeting of the council is attended with new complications and before the Grand Trunk Pacific deal is disposed of, more startling announcements than those already made may have to be chronicled.

run, but made a bad throw, and Spidel scored the first run of the day. Kinneer closed the inning by going out on a bouncer to Haynes. The war "sky-blue rain" in the visitors' third inning at bat. The Sedro-Woolleyites made two hits, and this, combined with two costly errors by Irbey and Chase and an unlucky throw by Irbey in trying to throw out Toby at the plate, the ball striking Toby on the back and glancing off, went far enough to allow three runs to score. Toby had previously come in on a single, and Haynes, who had been talking about the fifth tally when he came in on Brophy's fly to Burnes. Victoria scored two in the second, on Taylor's wild throw to the tall grasses, when Goward batted between the pitcher's box and first. Haynes, who had commenced the inning with a drive to centre, scoring, and Goward, who had reached third on the throw, also scoring a moment later on Whalen's cocking single. Chase had been substituted as a runner for Goward, owing to a temporary injury to Goward, and the way Chase came in from second on Whalen's hit, an object lesson in base running which some of the other players can well profit from.

Neither team tallied in the fourth and fifth. Sedro-Woolley drew another clipper in the sixth, but there were three strikes in the seventh, and the home team played with hits and catches, striden bases and all the plays. That a rooster's soul delights in. Until the fatal time grew near. When one lone small hit was needed. To keep the scapulae from the players. Who came across the big sea waters. And while Chase stood there waiting. Ready for the small home side. Elmer blazed it in the baseman's fingers. With such force that it lodged there. Like a fly which in the batter. Caught its legs and stayed a prisoner. Thus it was—oh my children. That our scaps were taken from us. And the boys from Sedro-Woolley. Beat us at the festive ball game.

Victoria had another grand chance in the ninth. Goward reached first on an error by Irbey. Chase was again substituted to run for him. Chase pulled down a fly in the line style. Whalen came to the bat, and it was up to him to tie the score. He tried his best, and perhaps his very eagerness was responsible for his being fanned. The crowd was a moment of suspense. The pallid faces of the crowd were a strained look of intense anxiety. Hearts throbbed and thumped with quickening beat. All at once there was a frantic cheer as Emerson landed on the base, but two hits bobbed up in the air from some place in the vicinity of third, and took away Victoria's last chance of victory. Had Emerson's hit been just two inches higher above the ball, but his fingers, Chase would have tied the score, but again the refrain:

Of all sad things of tongue or pen, the saddest are these, it might have been." The score follows: SEDRO-WOOLLEY. H.B.R.B.H.P.O.A.E. Boy (who has spent sixpence upon a knife for his birthday present)—Look father, here is a knife I have bought you, all with my own money. Father—Thanks, my boy, it's very good of you. Boy—But, you know, you ought to give me something for it, else it's unlucky. Father—How much? Boy—Oh, about three or six pence. Punch.

The Sedro-Woolleyites made two hits, and this, combined with two costly errors by Irbey and Chase and an unlucky throw by Irbey in trying to throw out Toby at the plate, the ball striking Toby on the back and glancing off, went far enough to allow three runs to score. Toby had previously come in on a single, and Haynes, who had been talking about the fifth tally when he came in on Brophy's fly to Burnes. Victoria scored two in the second, on Taylor's wild throw to the tall grasses, when Goward batted between the pitcher's box and first. Haynes, who had commenced the inning with a drive to centre, scoring, and Goward, who had reached third on the throw, also scoring a moment later on Whalen's cocking single. Chase had been substituted as a runner for Goward, owing to a temporary injury to Goward, and the way Chase came in from second on Whalen's hit, an object lesson in base running which some of the other players can well profit from.

Neither team tallied in the fourth and fifth. Sedro-Woolley drew another clipper in the sixth, but there were three strikes in the seventh, and the home team played with hits and catches, striden bases and all the plays. Victoria had another grand chance in the ninth. Goward reached first on an error by Irbey. Chase was again substituted to run for him. Chase pulled down a fly in the line style. Whalen came to the bat, and it was up to him to tie the score. He tried his best, and perhaps his very eagerness was responsible for his being fanned. The crowd was a moment of suspense. The pallid faces of the crowd were a strained look of intense anxiety. Hearts throbbed and thumped with quickening beat. ## BRITISH JOURNALISTS TRAVELING WEST

The Party Includes Several Men Distinguished in the Profession.

Last Wednesday the party of representative British newspaper men who are touring Canada reached Winnipeg and were cordially welcomed by leading Winnipeggers and were taken all over the prairie capital. As the trip, unfortunately, is a very hurried one they have not much time to spare, but promised to spend more time on the return journey. They were enthusiastic in their praise of Canadian energy, enterprise and productions. To most of them the country was a complete revelation. One fact which has impressed itself upon them again a tightening of the serpentine folds, spasmodic twitches, and the sea all round me became black as ink, as the monster cuttle writhed under my paddlings and ejected his defensive fluid. Primarily I cut the long tentacles round one leg and one arm, and slid down into the depths listlessly, as if lifeless, and my leg was free.

"How long I lay insensible after clambering painfully to the top of the bluff and falling into a grassy dell. I know not; but I never tasted anything bluff and falling into a grassy dell. I know not; but I never tasted anything so sweet as the south wind blowing around me, and the warm June sun bathing me as I lay inert, drinking in the smell of flowers, of woods, of earth, when I awoke from that torpor of death to feel that I was victor though a

THE WEEK'S MINING

By H. M. L.

If the report be true that the Dominion government propose to shortly create a department of mines at Ottawa, and appoint in connection therewith an expert mineralogical and metallurgical staff, the Canadian Mining Institute, which was first to urge the matter on the authorities, should earn the thanks of the mining communities on the result of its efforts. The Provincial Mining Association, which also made this proposal the subject of a special resolution, will also have cause for further congratulation. Heretofore it has been urged that there was little object in the establishment of a federal mining department, as the Yukon excepted, the Dominion could exercise no special jurisdiction in dealing with mining in the respective provinces. But this excuse is surely a very lame one, for if it applied, there would equally be no jurisdiction for many of the most important of the mineral-producing areas of Canada, would of course be the first to benefit largely.

The silver-lead mine operators in the Slocan held a meeting last week, with the object of perfecting their organization. Among other matters discussed was the question of inducing producers to pool the outputs from the mines, with view to marketing the ores more advantageously than it is contended can be accomplished by dealing individually with the smelters. Ultimately it was proposed to appoint a committee authorized to enter into contracts with either Canadian or American smelters, offering the best rates. Thus, for example, one smelter may require an ore running high in lead values, and could not be expected to afford to make better terms than another where ore of this character was not a desideratum. Plainly the intention of the mine-owners is to keep the smelters under a close surveillance and prevent anything like an attempt on the part of the local works to take undue advantage of the terms under which the lead bounty is offered. At the same time, it should not be forgotten that in order to assist the lead miners in obtaining the recent concession from the government, the smelters voluntarily agreed to the abolition of the bounty formerly paid by the government to them direct.

In an interview with a local paper the other day, Mr. James Cronin, manager of the St. Eugene mine at Moir, made the following important statement: "We shall start the St. Eugene mine just as soon as we make a contract for our ore, which I am in hopes we will be able to do by the 1st of August. As soon as a contract is made we shall begin shipping on men and getting everything in shape for running. In order to assure us of sufficient power, we will likely put in an engine to run the mill during low water. It is also our intention in future to save the zinc, which has heretofore been carried off in the tailings. The addition of some elevators, bins and vanners to the concentrator will be all that will be required, and we expect to save from 100 to 200 tons a month. Zinc is selling at a higher price than lead, and you may state that we wish to get all our former employees back again when we start, and we will give them ample notice through the newspapers when we are ready for them."

Meanwhile since shipping operations were suspended at the St. Eugene, an expenditure of approximately $100,000 has been made in the further development of the property, and the reserves have in consequence been considerably augmented, it being estimated that there is now in sight from two to three years' supply on the basis of former production. This, it will be remembered, was very large two years ago, the mine shipping during a period of six months nearly as much ore as all the mines in the Slocan put together in a year.

Ymir district this year should make a very satisfactory showing, the tonnage so far put out being in the neighborhood of 30,000 tons. The Ymir mine continues to be the heaviest producer, being responsible for 25,000 tons of this total. The other shipping mines are the Wilcox, Hudson V., Altamont, Elsie, while the Porto Rico, owned by a London company, is about to re-enter the productive class, having been recently leased to a thoroughly practical miner, in the person of the former superintendent of the Ymir mine. The Porto Rico is already adequately equipped with a ten-stamp mill and other machinery, and in the past has produced some very rich ore. Other mines actively worked in the near vicinity are the Fern and Second Relief, recent returns from which have also been satisfactory.

Shipments from Rossland continue to show a substantial increase, the Le Roi having already this year produced over 100,000 tons, or very nearly one-half of the aggregate Rossland tonnage to date. The only piece of unsatisfactory intelligence is that the Velvet has been indefinitely closed down. After the recent optimistic cablegrams sent out by the manager, this step would appear to be somewhat unintelligible; but the explanation is that the transportation facilities are so indifferent that to continue shipment under the circumstances is not deemed expedient. The Rossland Miner, in its issue of July 20, contains, however, this somewhat significant note: "Should it be decided to re-open the mine at once, the time will be well naturally be devoted to the opening of new ore bodies."

It is announced that arrangements have been made for the re-opening of the Great Western mine, one of the properties purchased by the British America Corporation some four years ago. Operations were not, however, long continued on the property, upon the grounds that the conditions at the time did not admit of the profitable extraction of the ore, which is generally low-grade in character. That work should be now resumed is regarded as a further indication of the progress since made in respect to metallurgical improvements, which have resulted in the reduction of treatment costs.

Meetings of the Great Western Mines, Limited, and the Double Eagle Company, of Ferguson, in the Lardeau, were held last week, the manager of the Great Western reporting that since November last necessary machinery had been installed and 3,300 feet of development work done at the mine. Fourteen hundred tons of ore were shipped, realizing $76,915; the net value being $40,224. A special railway is to be shortly built to convey large quantities of second-class ore, which have accumulated on the dump, to a concentrator at Ferguson.

Mr. W. S. Gage, representing the interests of the Mitchell Mining Company, is reported to have made the following rather bombastic statements in respect to the Britannia mine, at Howe Sound, which he recently examined: "I cannot say much about what we are doing there, as the report which I shall make is mainly confidential. I will say, however, that the Britannia is incalculably rich—how rich I scarcely know myself. I declare unhesitatingly that it is the greatest copper property in the world, and when I say that I want you to remember that the Mitchell Company owns several other copper bonanzas which make the use of a superlative term sound pretty strong." Mr. Gage was accompanied by Mr. A. A. Brownlee, a mining engineer, who represents Mr. F. August Heine, The Mitchell and Heine interests have lately pooled their copper interests in the Northwest. Meanwhile the survey has already been commenced for the line of the aerial tramway which is to be installed at this property.

The American Institute of Mining Engineers, at a meeting of its council, adopted resolutions thanking and accepting, as far as that institute is concerned, the munificent offer of Andrew Carnegie, in which he stated his willingness to donate $1,000,000 for the erection of a building in New York City to be occupied by the various engineering societies and the Engineers' Club. A permanent committee to confer with representatives of the other engineering societies, consisting of Dr. A. R. Ledoux, Charles Kierhoff and Theodore Dwight, was appointed.

Chimmie Fadden's Views

AS TO REFORMERS, AND THE POLICE GAMBLERS' COMBINE.

By Edward W. Towse, Esq.

If it wasn't for de police-and-gamblers' combine, what would New York talk about? Notting! Say, ever since I was a kid on de Bowery I've heard police-and-gamblers, real police-and-gamblers in de papers and piousness, clubs, reformers, kickers and visitors has preached, scolded and put up all kinds of fancy and plain hollers about de world, since anything was doing, when dere wasn't gambling. I know dat, because Mr. Paul told me so, and what he doesn't know hasn't happened yet.

Yes, Chimmie," he says to me, "since de first part of civilization—meaning I suppose, when Adam hocked his winter leaf in de spring—man has been trying to shake something out of de box dat he put dere. De changes is," he says, "dat Noah bequilled de dull hours in de Ark by trying to locate de pea under de right shell. De distinguishing trait, he says, being and he wants to get a run for his money, 'de human beast is dat he's de only beast dat will walk into a trap, knowing it to be a trap. If we sets a trap for de stupidest beast, he'll grov in his own fur or foddies, we tries to hide de trap. If you is next to me course, you see what I'm stooping at. You don't have to hide a man-trap—just bait it."

"With a gold bait," I says, getting next.

"Smoke," he says. "With a dream, a dope book, wit any old kind of a bait dat comes handy. Even de promise of a promise will do. 'Chimmie,' he says, 'don't de papers print advertisements of traps where dey says, 'We are a little busy dis week, and haven't time to bait dis fine new trap to which your honour is called out, ladies and gents, it's a trap all right, and de bait will be in sight just as soon as we get time to look it on. In de meantime, get rich quick, or we'll spring de trap and leave you on de outside.' What happens?"

"De band begins to play," I says.

"It does," says Mr. Paul. "It begins to play dat good old song:

"If you've got to kill a sucker, get a gun. Don't believe because he's greedy dat he's done—

"Use a razor and revolver. When you think you've killed your sucker—when it's done—

"Use a razor and revolver. When you think you've killed your sucker—when it's done—

"And when you have done him for fair," I says, "what's de use? A tout comes along wit a couple more, and de man at de peek-hole gives 'em de glad welcome."

"That's it," says Mr. Paul. "De demand for suckers grows like a house on pump—in all directions at once. But de supply never runs short, no matter how the most of us make our money. A sucker and his money is soon parted, and all de laws made in Albany and Mulberry Street can't prevent de goods from being sold."

"It's a good rule dat works bot ends and de middle," says Whiskers, who heard him say dat. "I'm astonished! It's wicked to gamble. Commissioner Greene should be give de right to drive all kinds of raw material, woe's true de mill, a coal barge on top of 'em."

"Sir," says Mr. Paul, giving me de wink, "you speaks like a reformer. It is wicked, indeed, to gamble. I spoke in jest, you know dat Whiskers is Mr. Paul's fadder-in-law, and he cuts two coupons to Mr. Paul's one, and Mr. Paul is as polite to him as Duchess is to Miss

Paul. "You is all right. By de way," he says, "what was de doing in zine?"

"Oh, nothing much," Whiskers says, comfortable like. "I heard de rumor of a dividend, and thought. De director told me dere would be no dividend, but dat dey would put a box of zine into de Street until a few of us could get out, and go short enough to pay us for de trouble of going all de way down town and at railway rates. 'Notting much,' he says. 'Just a flyer.'

I seen dat Mr. Paul was eroisy to put a cramp in Whiskers' temper, but Miss Fadden give him a box of zine, and he sat in at bridge, and lose a couple of hundred to Whiskers before I quit owing 'em small bottles."

But I was going to put you straight on de police-and-gamblers' combine. Who makes dat combine? Reformers! Dat's as right as de leg dat's never left. Honest, I sometimes do a stunt of looking at de folks of dis town who makes de gambling hollers know what dis little old Island of Manhattan is. It doesn't look a bit like dey really know. Dere is tons and tons of men in dis town who can be stopped from gambling only one way—by burying 'em."

"I'll just be sure as men will gamble, men will provide lay-outs for 'em. De man who wants to do business, see de captain of de precinct where he want to locate, and agrees on rates. De man dey want to run de house says, 'license. If it was let go dat, District Toiney Jerome would only have to saw wood, and not bodder about de line right."

But de Reformers get busy; dey makes it hard for de captains to keep de grand-stand raiders from getting away de furniture and bric-a-brac wit de police-hammers. Deu de man who's paid his license registers his kick. It costs good money to buy new front doors and lace curtains, to say nothing of grand-stand dollar signs. Wouldn't de gambler dat has to refurbish his place after every visit of rough-house raiders rather pay a license to dey city, and give him protection, dan pay dat tax and have his plate-glass and rugs put on de bum every little while?"

Remember what 'Gite Fitch says: "It's a condition, not a choice, it's up against you. Well, if de good folks of dis burg would get next to de condition, which is dat gambling can't be stopped, and license de game deiveselves, we'd have a lot more space in de papers for baseball news, and more money to build tunnels to de Bronx."

But, my, my! I hasn't hung out no sign as a wise guy on how to run de government, but if I don't cut things right to you, now and den, you might tink I wasn't strictly next to de proposition.

Well, I was saying something like dat to Mr. Paul, and he says to me, "Chimmie," he says, "is it true dat anyone but de police can get into all de gambling houses in de city?"

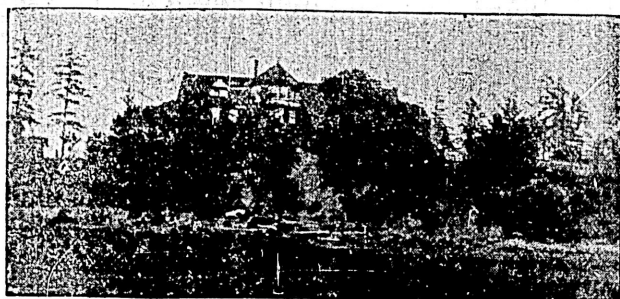

I looked to see if he was passing me a kidding, but he was as sober as de judge in de Tombs, and I says, "Sure," I says.

"I'm glad it is so," he says, "for it will save me trouble to know it. I undertook to prove it for myself, and visited a dozen places, where I was welcomed like a long-lost brother, and it was getting tiresome, so well as expensive. Now dat I has your insurance dat it is de same at de older places, which I hasn't had time to visit, I'll quit me investigations and stop home to play bridge wit de fadder-in-law—dat's Whiskers—and keep de money in de family."

Say, Mr. Paul doesn't know New York, I tink—when I'm fast asleep, I tink!

A lot of folks do not know that there is any kind of salmon except the king that is in cans on de grocery shelf, but as soon as they do wake up and find out that there is such a fish, that he is about de liveliest fish in water, and that he peoples de West Sound, thier dat all one has to do is to fish for him and catch a big boat-load of joy, they will begin to save their nickies to go out to de west side of de Sound, and get up with him plenty. There is no fun in de catalogue dat will come within de length of a corn-row of salmon fishing with light tackle, and Puget Sound is full of salmon in September.

BETTER THAN GOLD.

BETTER than grandeur, better than gold.

Than rank and titles a thousand fold, Is a healthy body, a mind at ease, And simple pleasures that always please.

When the true heart's crushed by a deadly blow, With sympathies large enough to enfold All men as brothers, is better than gold.

Better than gold is a conscience clear, Though tolling for bread in a humble sphere.

Deeds that with content and health, Urged by the hosts and cares of wealth, Lowly living and lofty thought.

Adorn and ennoble poor man's cot, For mind and morals in Nature's plot Are the genuine test of a gentleman.

Better than gold is the sweet repose Of the sons of toil when their labors close: Better than gold is the poor man's sleep, And the babe that drops on his slumbers deep.

Bring smiling draughts to the downy bed, Where luxury pillows its aching head: The toiler's simple odors deems A shorter route to the land of dreams.

Better than gold is the peaceful home, Where all the fireside characters come.

The shrine of love, the haven of life, Hallowed by mother or sister's wife.

However humble the home may be, Or tried with sorrow by Heaven's decree, The blessings that never were bought or sold, And centre there, are better than gold.

—Alexander Stuart.

The trades and labor movement in Victoria is marking time. Under present conditions it is not likely to advance, and the near future at any rate. Three years ago organized labor could not muster 200 men in Victoria. To-day there are 2,000 and more trades and labor unions in the city. The work of organization during the several years past was conducted along trade union lines. In other words, all unions organized by the organizing committee of the Trades and Labor Council have been chartered by the international union of their craft, or by the Dominion Trades Congress when an international union of a particular craft or calling did not exist. The growth of unionism has been phenomenal for an old conservative city like Victoria. All at once a halt is called, and, as stated, the trades and labor movement is marking time.

Turning back three years, or a little better, a Socialist League, now a branch of the British Columbia Socialist party, was formed. For several years the league made slow, if any, headway. About nine months ago an aggressive campaign was inaugurated. For some time the propaganda work was conducted along the lines of inducing labor unions, through voluntary persuasion, to enlist in the Socialist movement. This means of reaching the most likely material failed of desired results. Judging from the attitude and statements of Socialists, it was thought well that Socialism be carried into the labor unions. A little better than two months ago a special organizer (there was an organizer already in the field of the American Labor Union, of Denver, Col.—an institution granting "charters" to all and every kind of union, and self-declared Socialist institution—appeared on the scene. This special organizer's work has resulted in the formation of two unions—the woodworkers (principally millmen) and the hackmen. These unions, chartered by the American Labor Union, were given representation at the Trades and Labor Council, the constitution being over-ridden to do so. Thus briefly has been stated the reasons for the present cleft in the labor movement.

Socialism is the Salvation Army of the labor movement, and sooner or later will take its place as such. While the advocates of agrarianism will cause more or less friction in labor unions in their aggressive crusade to convert all organized workers to their faith. As the Salvation Army finds its field of labor outside the churches, so will Socialists find their field of labor outside the trades unions. As in the churches the found and saved exist side by side, so in the trades unions are found many earnest sympathizers with Socialism.

It has been charged that trade unions have not bettered the conditions of the workers, yet statistics show that wages have been doubled in the past fifty years, with the hours of labor considerably reduced and the cost of living advanced 6 per cent. During this period working conditions in factories and workshops have been vastly improved, education has been made cheaper, in some instances free and universal. Men have been compelled to pass legislation protecting workmen in many ways. All of which, and more besides, has been accomplished by trades unions. Therefore, the statement that the workers are no better off by reason of trade unions is not in accordance with facts. It is not claimed that trade unionism is a cure-all for the thousand ills of the world, but it is claimed and has been proven that trade unions lighten and brighten the lives and homes of those who toil for a livelihood.

The local Typographical Union at its last meeting declined to endorse a proposition from the Ottawa Typographical Union insisting on a five-per-cent advance in the International Typographical Union being a resident of Canada.

The Barbers' Union has had placed in Labor Hall a very neat lithograph, showing a fac-simile of the "Shop Card." At the foot of the emblem appear the words, "Patrons: shops in which this card is displayed."

The Tailors' Union will hold a private picnic up the Gorge on the 5th instant. The afternoon will be spent in sports and games, including a game of baseball between the bosses and the journeymen. Bats will leave McIntosh's boat-house at 1 p.m. During the afternoon the tailor shops will be closed.

There is a difference between a trades union and a labor union. A trades union is comprised of persons skilled in a particular trade, requiring an apprenticeship. A labor union is comprised of persons not necessarily skilled in any craft, or composed of skilled and unskilled workers. In latter days sometimes called an industrial union.

It is said that Japan has a Federation of Labor with almost 300,000 members. Salem, Mass., has 2,000 employees, at wages of $800,000, making $3,000,000 in wages a year; 1,000 workmen at wages of $800,000 a year, making $3,500,000 of either.

The executive council of the American Federation of Labor has sent a strong appeal to all organizations to stand by every contract entered into.

Nice advertising Canada is going to get in Scotland. The 150 molders and core-makers brought to Toronto under misrepresentation by the Canada Foundry Company are going home. They refused to work when they found out they were taking the place of strikers. The matter was discussed in the House of Commons, and, Mr. Mulock said, was most regrettable. That was all.

Most of the factories of Berlin, Germany, have a ten-hour day, and as the labor unions are strong, they can hold that time to a certain extent. In other parts of Germany the working day averages eleven hours, with no Saturday afternoons off, and in certain sections it averages twelve hours and over.

"What is your rule of business—your maxim?" we ask of the Wall Street baron.

"Very simple," he answers. "I pay for something that I can't get, with money that I haven't got, and then sell what I never had for more than it ever cost."

At the convention of the International Longshoremen's Union, held at Bay City, Mich., a few days ago, two Canadians were elected vice-presidents—J. A. McLaughlin, of Sarnia, Ont., and L. Montmarquette, of Montreal, Que.

It is remarkable how the genius of a nation is reflected in the form of its greetings. The mercurial Frenchman asks, "How goes it?" The seafaring Dutchman inquires, "How hast thou voyaged?" The domesticated and practical German asks, "How does thou find thyself?" The Englishman, with his eye always on business, asks, "How do you do?" The Chinaman, whose heart is a good meal, wants to be enlightened on the point, "Have you taken your rice, or is your digestion sound?" The Jew, thankful if he can let alone, greets you with a prayer for peace—"Shalom Alechem."—Jewish World.

At Sheffield, England, a few days ago Alderman Charles Hudson, Justice of the Peace and leader of the local trade unionists, was sentenced to three months' imprisonment in the second division for unlawfully receiving a secret commission as a reward for voting for the purchase by the corporation of certain land in which he had a partnership interest.

A dog was playing a piano in a circus in Yorkshire the other day, says a London newspaper, when one of the audience called out, "The dog!" The dog immediately vacated his seat and "went for" the rodents. The piano kept on playing!

There were 702,487 paupers in England and Wales at the end of May, London alone claiming 105,277 of these. The ratio is 21.3 per 1,000 of the population, as against a proportion of 48.3 per 1,000 in 1863.

The Vancouver Independent last week contained the following: "Time works wonders. Socialists used to be 'Johnny on the spot' with the reminder that a labor organizer or any other unionist who took pay for his work was a 'grafter' and a 'fakir.' It now appears that labor unionists are not the only 'grafter' in the movement. A. E. Fowler writes in the Liberator as follows on the alarming number of Socialist grafters bobbing up all over the country: 'When any man in this movement undertakes to lay out a route of 60 days at $25 per day, his services are altogether too valuable for everyday use, and it might be just as well for the Socialists to try and get along without them.'"

"It is a trifle inconsistent for us to go before the wage slaves of America with a propaganda that upholds the 'iron law of wages,' a 'class-consciousness' produced, as they say, by capitalists and other equally horridly-labeled sons of toil at $25 or $15 per diem. "No Socialist agitator, educated or otherwise, has any right to expect more than extreme wage for the work. He should be willing to break even with the rank and file who dig up their dimes and dollars to carry on the work of agitation. "The man who seeks to fatten his purse in the Socialist movement is a human buzzard, no matter what his intellectual and oratorical accomplishments strike to be."

The happen of hotel waiters and cooks in Chicago collapsed when the city's millionaires demonstrated the fact that they had not forgotten their early training by turning in and doing the work themselves.—Washington Post.

Last year the Order of Railroad Telegraphers secured 20 new and revised contracts, and the cost of living advanced 6 per cent. During this period working conditions in factories and workshops have been vastly improved, education has been made cheaper, in some instances free and universal. Men have been compelled to pass legislation protecting workmen in many ways. All of which, and more besides, has been accomplished by trades unions. Therefore, the statement that the workers are no better off by reason of trade unions is not in accordance with facts. It is not claimed that trade unionism is a cure-all for the thousand ills of the world, but it is claimed and has been proven that trade unions lighten and brighten the lives and homes of those who toil for a livelihood.

A lodge of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen has been organized at Nelson.

The cheapest municipal tenements are those owned by Dublin, where two rooms can be rented for 2s. a week.

In an open letter to the membership of the International Barbers' Union, Secretary W. E. Klapezky says he is compelled to retire owing to broken health, brought on by working for 12 years from 12 to 15 hours a day. When Klapezky became secretary there were 421 members in the organization, carrying a debt of $11,000. To-day the order has 22,000 members and a surplus of $71,000.

Labor unions at Charlotte, N. C., have originated an educational plan worthy of notice. The typographical union is educating a girl taken from one of the cotton mills there. It has sent her to school, supported her, and appropriates about $240 a year for her benefit. Other labor organizations in Charlotte have adopted a plan similar to that formulated by the typographical union. The street car men, the Peddlers' and Labor Union and the bartenders all send children to school.

In labor difficulties the public is the final arbiter—Mark Hanna.

At a recent conference of delegates from the New Zealand trades and labor councils, resolutions were passed in favor of an increase in the land tax and a decrease in customs duties on the necessities of life, the establishment of government boot-making, tailoring and clothing, and saddlery and harness factories, public ownership of coasting, fire insurance, and amendment of the Industrial Conciliation and Arbitration Act.

John Mitchell has been sued by a New York lawyer for $200,000. The latter claims that he worked out the plan of settlement of the anthracite.

Garment workers will hold their national convention in Indianapolis, Ind., beginning August 10.

Christianity teaches us to love our neighbors as ourselves. Modern society acknowledges no neighbor.—Beaconsfield.

John Mitchell has refused an offer of $50,000 for 100 lectures of one hour each, and traveling expenses. The important feature of his refusal is that it came at once, without asking time to consider the offer. If anybody doubted that Mitchell has consecrated himself to the mine workers' cause, that doubt is now dispelled.—Labor Compendium, St. Louis.

The eighty-odd senators draw over a thousand dollars a year apiece out of the country's treasury, and they are about as useful as the fifth wheel to a coach. Occasionally they hear a spicy divorce case, and are all ears to the little details of the action, a very proper thing, of course, in order to arrive at a fair judgment—but beyond that they are neither ornamental nor useful.—Winnipeg Tribune.

The local of the International Longshoremen's Union at Galveston, Texas, has over $100,000 in its treasury.

The United Brotherhood of Railway Employees still claims 25,000 members.

The Railroad Telegraphers' Union reports shows that the organization increased from 10,339 to 25,254 members in the year ending April 30.

RIPANS

FAMILY BOTTLE

Ripans Tabules are a standard household remedy. Each tabule is an accurate dose, made separately. They are for men, women and children. They regulate the stomach, liver and bowels; keep them in a healthy condition, prevent chronic and dangerous diseases, and restore the organs to a healthy condition when they have become diseased.

Ripans Tabules are a most economical remedy. For the convenience of families where the tabules are in constant use, they are put up in large bottles, each containing one hundred and fifty tabules. Care should be taken to observe that the bottle is securely corked and bears the trade-mark on the unbroken paper seal over the cork. The tabules should never be bought in bottles that have been tampered with. The price for the Family Bottle is sixty cents — 150 doses for sixty cents.

If you cannot get a Family Bottle from your druggist, send the price, sixty cents, to the manufacturers, The Ripans Chemical Co., 10 Spruce St., New York City, and they will send you one by return mail, postage paid.
